Kabul rocket find: NATO peacekeepers discovered a cache of rockets on Saturday close to the Kabul International Airport in the Afghan capital, a spokesman said.

Forty rockets, 30 fuses and some wiring were found in a concealed store 1.2 miles from the main runway at the airport, said

Cdr. Chris Henderson, a NATO spokesman. French explosives experts from the international force removed the rockets. It was unclear if they were destroyed or handed over to the Afghan military.

Princess Diana memorial: The memorial fountain honoring Princess Diana was to remain closed through the weekend as construction experts try to figure out how to make it safer, London officials said Friday.

The water was turned off Thursday after three people got hurt when they slipped and fell in the Hyde Park fountain. Workers put up a seven foot fence around the fountain and roughened the texture of some of its stones to reduce the risk of slipping.

The parks agency called a meeting of designers, engineers and safety experts to investigate the accidents and consider how to make the fountain safer.

International space station: The international space station could be expanded beyond its current three crew-member capacity by the end of the decade under an agreement reached Friday by the station's 16 partners.

The space station would house a permanent crew of as many as six members as early as January 2009 under a deal reached at a meeting in Noordwijk, The Netherlands, by the heads of the space agencies involved in the station. The size of the crew depends on the number of Soyuz escape vehicles that can be docked at the space station.

"It's going to have to be some derivative of what a Russian Soyuz vehicle can handle," said Allard Beutel, a NASA spokesman in Washington. Each Soyuz can fit three people.

eral prison administrator was sworn in to take over the overcrowded iail.

Gov. Sonny Perdue acted Friday on the recommendation of a three-member panel he appointed to investigate allegations of mismanagement by Fulton County Sheriff Jackie Barrett

The panel, made up of the state attorney general and two sheriffs, said it found reason to believe Barrett violated her duty when she invested $7.2 million in public money in risky ventures, disregarding customary governmental safeguards. About $2 million was lost.

Chicken abuse: Federal compliance officers have been sent to the West Virginia processing plant where workers are accused of torturing chickens before slaughtering them, and a government spokesman said Friday it's unclear how long the investigation will take

Pilgrim's Pride fired 11 of it employees, including several managers, on Wednesday and pledged to hold accountable anyone who knew of the abuse at the plant in Moorefield. The Texas-based company also put quality assurance monitors in place and said it re-educated workers at all its North American plants about humane treatment.

Alien fish: A nonnative fish known for its appetite and ability to wriggle short distances on land has been discovered in a Philadelphia waterway, raising concerns about its effects on native species.

An angler caught two Northern snakeheads in a lake last week and contacted the Fish and Boat Commission, which then caught three more snakeheads. The commission said it believes the fish, native to Asia and Africa, are present in other local waterways.

DotComGuy trademark: The attempt by the man formerly known as DotComGuy to sell his trademark name on eBay didn't work. The only bidder failed to meet the $100,000 minimum bid. The auction began July 13 and emded Friday at 5 p.m.

Mitch Maddox, who legally changed his name to DotComGuy in 1999, had hoped to sell the trademark and related Web site so he and his wife could make a down payment on a house, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reports.

Enron case: A handwritten memo detailsecret side deals between Enron's former chief accountant Rick Causey and former finance chief Andrew Fastow guarantees Fastow-controlled LJM entities as much as $50 million from Enron.

The note has led defense lawyers to predict that Causey is under pressure to seek a deal with the government, the Houston Chronicle reported.

The document — called the "global galactic" agreement by prosecutors — seemed a part of Enron folklore until it was cited as an actual written agreement in the indictment of ex-Chairman Ken Lay earlier this month.

The Chronicle obtained a copy this week of the memo, which is neatly handwritten and appears to be initialed on all three pages by Causey and Fastow.

Kanto Plain gripped by record heat

By VINCE LITTLE

Stars and Stripes

YOKOTA AIR BASE, Japan -"Hot out there, ain't it?"

That's being tossed around rather frequently these days on Kanto Plain U.S. military installations, which are locked in a record heat wave on the heels of a less-than-robust rainy season.

Temperatures soared last week, hitting 103.1 degrees in Tokyo on Tuesday, shattering an all-time high of 102.4, set Aug. 3, 1994, according to the Japan Meteorological Agency, which began keeping track of the sta tistics in 1923.

While some say it's summertime and it's supposed to be hot — U.S. military forecasters point to a high-pressure center camped out over Okinawa and Kvushu.

Officials say this center is fueling a northwesterly flow of warm, sink ing, dry air down the mountain ranges surrounding the Kanto Plain. causing the higher than normal temperatures. Normally, it sits to the southeast, bringing slightly cooler weather to the Kanto, with its southwesterly winds off the Pacific

Although Japanese forecasters predicted above-average tempera-tures this summer, said Yoshinori Ogawa, a weather forecaster/liaison for the 20th Operation Weather Squadron, few thought it would be this extreme

So far, it's been one of the warmest on record, according to Ogawa. rekindling memories of 1994, when blistering summer heat and severe drought led to rice shortages and Japan having to import rice from another country for the first time. "That may happen again this year," Ogawa said.

A dry rainy season, which official-ly ended last Tuesday on the Kanto Plain, a week earlier than normal, didn't help matters, he said. The region typically gets 9-10 inches of rain on average, but this season has produced just over 4.

JIM SCHULZ/Stars and Strines

Erik Black, 8, Jason Black, 10, and Alison Wallach, 9, beat the heat while swimming at the pool at Yokosuka Naval Base on Saturday.

So far this month, Tokyo has received just .08 inches of rain - almost 6.5 inches less than usual - according to the JMA, but a forecaster there dismissed the possibility of water shortages, since dam levels are normal. Also, the northern part of the country has gotten significant rainfall.

The average temperature in June at Yokota is 76 degrees, rising to 83 degrees in July, said Maj. Michael Mills, commander of the 20th Operational Weather Squadron's contingency planning flight. The recorded high this June was 79, and through Thursday, the average high this month has been 90.

And the worst may be yet to come. "There's no telling when that high [pressure center] is going to shift," Mills said. "The seasons don't start changing until September and October, then that high will retreat. "The average high in August [at Yokota] is 86," said Mills. "So we haven't even reached the hottest month yet." On a more positive note, the heat wave might reduce the chance of a typhoon hitting Kanto Plain bases, according to Mills

The position of the high-pressure center over the southwest should steer the storms to the Korean Peninsula and China, Mills said, but as long as it remains in place, steamy conditions are likely to continue for a while on the Kanto Plain.

Report: AF spending $2.6B on inadequate planes gathering weather data inside hurricanes

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Air Force continues to order a new type of cargo plane despite spending $2.6 billion to buy 50 planes that do not meet the military's requirements and cannot be flown in combat zones. Pentagon investigators said

Contractor Lockheed Martin hasn't delivered any C-130J planes that met requirements in the eight years since the program began, the report said. The Air Force and Lockheed Martin disagree.

Problems with the propeller-driven cargo planes include faulty computer and diagnostic systems and inadequate de fense measures, the Pentagon's Office of Inspector General concluded.

So far, none of the planes has been cleared for some of their primary missions: Dropping troops and cargo into war zones and flying in conditions requiring the crew to wear night-vision goggles.

The inspector general's report concluded that Air Force and Defense Department officials mismanaged the program, requiring millions of dollars in upgrades and thousands of hours of work to make the Air Force, Lockheed Martin dispute findings by Pentagon investigators on new C-130Js planes capable of performing as well as the aging models they're supposed to replace.

The Air Force strongly denied the renort's conclusions

Marvin Sambur, the Air Force's top acquisition official, wrote to the investigators that the program is within its cost, schedule and contract guidelines. Lockheed Martin has started delivering planes which meet Air Force specifications and the necessary upgrades have either been completed or scheduled. Sambur wrote.

"While some of the facts presented in the DOD/IG report are accurate, the findings and conclusions ascribed to these facts canand conclusions ascribed to these facts can-not be supported," Sambur wrote in re-sponse to the inspector general's office. "The Air Force fully endorses the C-130J

Lockheed Martin spokesman Jeff Rhodes said Friday the company agrees with the Air Force.

"The Air Force, ultimately the end user who is flying the aircraft, also says that the C-130J program is meeting cost, schedule contract and regulatory commitments," Rhodes said in an e-mail statement

Two Air Force squadrons haven't been able to perform their missions for more than four years because they only have C-130Js, the report said. The 815th Air Squadron at Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi and the 135th Airlift Squadron of the Maryland Air National Guard are sup-posed to drop troops and supplies into hos-

Five other Air Force and Marine units ave the C-130J planes but use older C-130s to perform their missions, the report said.

Air Force testers found so many prob lems with the planes they stopped evalua-tions in 2000 so the problems they already found could be fixed, the report said

The report cites problems with the planes including: ■ Propellers for C-130Js designed for were damaged in all tests. The weather planes also didn't have radar strong enough to penetrate storms as far as it should. Upgrades to fix those problems mean C-130Js won't be able to fly hurricane missions until at least next year.

■ Diagnostic systems have a high rate of false positives, meaning maintenance crews spend a lot of time trying to repair components which aren't broken

■ The planes did not have an automated system for planning missions

■ The C-130Js are so different from older models that pilots qualified to fly older C-130s must be retrained to fly the The Air Force continues to order more

C-130Js despite those problems. The mili tary is buying the planes as a commercial item — a process designed to allow the military to purchase goods on the open market that need few modifications for military use. Sambur suggested the inspector general's office was biased against such commercial contracts, an accusation the office denied.

The inspector general's office has been among critics of another Air Force plan to retrofit Boeing 767 jets for use as midair re35/346464945EE

'Lifesavers' endure training to meet support qualifications

BY JULIANA GITTLER

SAGAMI DEPOT, Japan — Twenty-five soldiers from four units re-earned their combat lifesaver support qualifications and vied for a medal as part of a unique training competition Friday.

Every six months, soldiers must requalify for their certification.

It. Col. Lee Stockland, commander of the 35th Supply and Service Battalion at Sagami Depot, decided to make the qualification sustainment program more life-like with a simulated battlefield exercise.

He used a competition to "rev up" the motivation. Top qualification scorers earned a few days of leave and first place winner 2nd Lt. Vincent Tatum earned an Army Achievement Medal.

"We put a little spin on it to make it fun," said Capt. Dan Reichard, commander of headquarters, headquarters detachment for the 35th. "Soldiers love training. The more realistic it is, the more they have fun," said Stockland. The soldiers had to complete

The soldiers had to complete several tasks including giving an intravenous solution, carrying a buddy using two connected pistol belts and applying bandages to serious wounds.

The exercise was done in full

The exercise was done in full combat gear at battle speed to add to the realism. Because it was competitive, soldiers worked fast under flak vests and helmets.

"It's not something we do that often. It's kind of stressful," said Spc. Beatrice Gouacide, with the 35th Supply and Service Battalion training office. "Just like weapons or PT (physical training), it's a skill we need to keep

During a triage segment, soldiers raced to assess and treat screaming victims wearing moulage — simulated wounds — while speakers blared the soundtrack from a battle scene of a movie. Evaluators classed the soldiers, screaming at them to make the scene more chaotic.

During the bandage segment, fake blood and more screaming made the scene eerily real.

"You really feel like you're in the environment of a war," said Pfc. Nelly Cavalie, also with the 35th. "We need this training. We need to feel it; we need to sweat, to feel the heat and the cold." In addition to training with real life situations, Stockland hopes to surpass the Army's minimum requirements and get every battalion soldier combat lifesaver certified. The Army only requires one person per section or squad to be certified, he said.

Torture tools on display

The Associated Press

BAGHDAD - Tools of torture that Saddam Hussein's slain son, Odai, used to punish underperforming Iraqi athletes were displayed for the media Saturday at a Baghdad sports stadium in advance of the Olympic Games next month

Journalists were shown medieval-style torture equipment, including an "iron maiden-like" casket with metal spikes fixed to the inside that athletes had been forced into, and chain whips with steel barbs the size of tennis balls attached to the end.

"During the old regime, Odai was looking for results and he wanted winners. He didn't like second place," Talib Mutan, an Iraqi Olympics Committee official, told Associated Press were punished. And he would punish the people around the athletes, their managers and coaches included," he said.

Odai ran the Olympic committee while his fa-ner ruled Iraq and was killed by U.S. forces last July along with his elder brother, Qusai.
Mutan said athletes who earned Odai's wrath were tortured in various ways, through beatings, sleep deprivation and being forced to walk barefoot over hot asphalt during Iraq's searing summer The official said there had been suggestions made to display the torture equipment in a museum, but no final decision had been made. The International Olympic Committee reinstated Iraq's national Olympic committee in February after it was suspended in early 2003, enabling Iraqi athletes to compete at the up-

Accused GI's lawyers: SUV was properly commandeered in Iraq

The Associated Press

The directive at the core of U.S. reconstruction efforts in Iraq was simple: Win hearts and minds

But supporters of one soldier, Sgt. 1st Class James Williams, say Army efforts to win the good will of Iraqis ended with charges that could send him to prison. Williams, 37, is accused of carjacking at gunpoint a sport utility vehicle driven by the son of an influential sheik in Mosul, Iraq, in April 2003. But Williams' defense says the vehi cle was properly "commandeered" under the military's wartime rules of Campbell in Kentucky for a court martial on charges of armed robbery and willful dereliction of duty. The father of two and veteran of both Iraq wars faces up to 15 years in prison if convicted. Williams' defenders claim the soldier was simply following orders to find a vehicle to replace one of the Humvees.

Another soldier already has been convicted in the case and sentenced to prison.

Prosecutors have said special orders were given in Mosul forbidding the use of civilian vehicles. Williams' brigade commander, Col. Joseph Anderson, has testified that the rules of engage-

In Iraq, confronting 'the silent enemy'

Mental health pros say biggest challenge in treating stress is getting soldiers to ask for help

BY RICK EMERT Stars and Stripes

RACHDAD he 2nd Medical Brigade, which oversees nearly all medical operations in Iraq, is chipping away at the barrier that keeps soldiers from seeking treatment for com-hat stress. It's a fight Army social workers. psychologists and psychiahave been waging since post-traumatic stress disorder came into the spotlight following the Vietnam War. A recent post-deployment screening conducted by the U.S. military showed that more than 50 percent of servicemembers were reluctant to seek treatment for combat stress because they feared it would affect their ca reers or future promotions.

But members of the brigade's Mental Health Section and the 785th Combat Stress Company say nearly all cases that are treat ed never even go into a soldier's medical file, let alone his personnel record.

"We don't upload their file to the promotion board to be looked at." said Mai. Geoffrey Grammer. medical director for the 785th Combat Stress Company in Baghdad. "We're not going to destroy careers. [Information] is kept in our files, but it is confidential. It does not go into their personnel file?

Of course, commanders and even peers may know that a solwas treated for combat

"Yeah, the commanders know," said Col. Bob Evans, se-nior clinician for the 785th Combat Stress Company. "A lot of them are appreciative of what we can do to help their soldiers. They become proud of the soldier's achievements."

More than 95 percent of all soldiers treated for combat stress which includes stress caused by family problems or even fatigue, return to duty in a matter of days. "[The commanders] see somebody whose performance has suddenly gone way up, and say: 'Wow, you really fixed this guy,' Evans said.

In most cases, like that of Staff Set. Richard Williams, a maintenance section chief from the 1st Cavalry Division, the soldier is returned to the same position he held before treatment.

Only in rare cases where a soldier poses a threat to himself or others would he be placed in a different section or status, such as under suicide watch or deemed unable to carry a weapon, Evans

There are two to five reported suicides each month in Iraq, Grammer said. According to an Army report released in March, 24 soldiers deployed to Kuwait and Iraq committed suicide in 2003 — a rate of 17.3 per 100,000. The overall Army suicide rate during the same time period was 12.8 per 100.000 soldiers Williams was suffering from anxiety attacks, a condition he had before he deployed to Iraq. "I had experienced this before but dealt with it," Williams said. 'It was becoming difficult to concentrate. I became aware that my work performance was suffer-

Williams first talked to a chaplain, who suggested he try medication. He went to a nearby medical clinic and was put on the wrong type of medication.

After spending a night at the 785th Combat Stress Company's fitness center, and getting the correct medication. Williams was able to return to duty.

The fitness center refers more to mental fitness than physical Soldiers spend up to five days at the center for treatment and follow a scheduled routine of physical training, chores and relaxation in a less intense environ-

Williams admitted the first sten to recovery was a big one.

"It was easy to preach to my soldiers that they can get help, but it was not so easy taking my own advice." Williams said. "I was being a tremendous hypocrite. I had told my soldiers that it was nothing to be ashamed of or embarrassed by.

Returning to his unit after treatment was awkward, but Williams said he quickly got back into the swing of things.

"People looked at me funny for a day or two." he said. "I went up to each of my soldiers individual ly and explained my situation. It actually brought the team closer together. We're still a mainte-nance team, but we're also a support group. We're able to talk to one another about these issues that everybody here has.'

Williams is one of many suc-cess stories of the mental health staffs throughout the theater. But other would-be successes are not coming forward with their problems. The 2nd Medical Brigade and combat stress companies are trying to change that by reaching out to the soldiers.

In an average 72-hour period, combat stress staffs throughout Iraq will conduct about 180 walkabouts, where they meet with about 700 soldiers and talk to them as a preventive measure.

'We get out there to make ourselves more approachable," Grammer said. "If the soldiers know us by name and face, they are more likely to come by and talk to us. The biggest focus for us is seeing the people at all."

The staff members see about 88 command referrals during a typical 72-hour period, according to Capt. Jeffrey Greenlinger, a so cial worker with the medical brigade's Mental Health Section Those are cases in which soldiers are referred for treatment by their commanders.

The staff also conducts classes on combat stress symptoms and relaxation techniques during that time, Greenlinger added.

A group of 12 mental health professionals visited the theater last year and identified ways to improve the situation here.

Among them was bringing in the 1908th and 1835th Combat Stress detachments to add about 60 mental health professionals to the 60 from the 785th already in

The 2nd Medical Brigade also created the Help 4 Web site, at www.mnf-iraq.com/2ndmed/index.htm. to link soldiers up with the nearest mental health resources available to them.

The combat stress staffs have spent months talking to commanders, platoon sergeants and section chiefs about getting soldiers the treatment they need.

Apparently, the word is getting out to the troops, like Sgt. Joseph Alonso, 478th Civil Affairs Battalion, and Spc. Christopher Sebren, 1-244th Command Aviation Bat-talion from the Louisiana Nation-

"I haven't gone through combat stress; so far, things are going pretty good," Alonso said. "The [rest and recuperation] trips help, and the unit takes pretty good care of us

But, Alonso added, he knows how to get help if he needs it. "The command keeps us pretty well informed of numbers we can call for help," he said. Sebren said he has experienced stress during events such as mor-tar attacks, but it subsides. "After a few minutes it hits you what really just happened, but you try not to think about it too much," he said, adding that he would seek treatment if he felt

"It's no problem to find help here," he said. Mental health staff members go out to even the most remote

"We go in and develop relationships with the soldiers," said Maj. David Rabb, 785th Combat Stress Company commander. "Stress is the silent enemy that can take people down. It's important that people do not isolate themselves

"It is like PMCS [a system of maintenance checks performed on Army vehicles] for soldiers," Evans said. "You can't run a Humvee all day long and expect it to keep going. Likewise, you can't run a soldier 12 hours a day for seven days a week and expect him to hold up."

Reports: Japan urges Jenkins to seek deal

U.S. kin say they're not allowed to visit hospital

TOKYO — American family members of accused U.S. Army deserter Charles Jenkins said Saturday they were barred from seeing him in a Tokyo hospital because U.S. and Japanese offi-cials want to quickly settle the matter of the former sergeant, possibly through a plea-bargain. The claims by Jenkins' neph-ew, James Hyman, and his wife, Shirlee, came amid media reports that the Japanese govern-ment was urging Jenkins to make a plea-bargain with Washington as it appeared impatient to take him into custody after doctors cleared him of serious medical problems.

The Hymans denied the charges against Jenkins and said they were blocked from seeing him to prevent them from showing him a letter from the U.S. Army indicating that evicase did not exist.

"The Japanese government and the American government are keeping everyone away from him so that we won't be able to tell him, 'this is what we able to tell him, 'this is what we know, this is what we got,

Shirlee said. James Hyman, who said he shared a close relationship with Jenkins in his childhood, said he did not believe Japanese offi-cials, who told him Friday that Jenkins did not want to see him and refused to let him call him.

U.S. says no compromise considered for alleged deserter

BY NATALIE OBIKO PEARSON The Associated Press

TOKYO - Japan will urge accused U.S. Army deserter Charles Jenkins to seek a plea bargain, reports said Saturday, after doctors said he had no serious medical condition and chances rose that Washwould ington request hand-over.

Jenkins is wanted by the United States for allegedly abandoning his South Korean post in 1965 and defecting to North Korea. He has Tokyo's support because he's married to a Japanese citizen, Hitomi Soga, who was kidnapped by the North years ago but returned to Japan.

Tokyo wants Jenkins to be able to settle in Japan with Soga and their two North Korean-born daughters. Washington has said it plans to pursue its case against Jenkins, who could face life in prison if convicted of desertion Japanese government officials believe the best way to keep the family united is to convince Jenkins to enter a plea bargain in-stead of fighting the charges, pub-lic broadcaster NHK reported, citing unidentified sources

However, Kyodo later reported that a U.S. defense official said Washington wasn't considering

"No one I know suggests there is a bargain," the agency quoted U.S. Deputy Defense Undersecretary for Asian and Pacific Affairs Richard Lawless as saving in Washington.

Lawless reiterated that the United States intended to take Jenkins into custody to face a court martial, the report said.

Asked whether Washington could be flexible on the case, Lawless said "no."

Jenkins has requested to speak with an expert on U.S. military law to discuss a possible plea bar gain, the Yomiuri Shimbun newspaper reported Saturday. Jenkins and Soga met in the North after her 1978 abduction. She returned to Japan in 2002, but her family stayed behind until Tokyo arranged a reunion in Indonesia - which has no extradition treaty with Washington — earlier this month. Jenkins is subject to U.S. military authorities in Japan under an agreement on the nearly 50,000 U.S. troops based here.

Security begins for Democratic convention

BY DENISE LAVOIE The Associated Press

BOSTON - Police randomly inspected the bags of subway and commuter train passengers, erected concrete barriers throughout the city and began shutting down one of the city's major transportation hubs as Boston hunkered down for the first political convention since the Sept. 11. 2001. at-

Signs of tightened security were everywhere — from "No Stopping" zones put in place outside government buildings and other sensitive locations to Jersey barriers and closing signs being placed along roadways warning motorists about the 40 miles of highway encircling the city being shut down during the height of the four-day convention's nightly proceedings.

Bush reacts to commission's findings

Pentagon releases Bush's '72 Guard payroll records

BY MATT KELLEY The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Newly discovered payroll records from President Bush's 1972 service in the Alabama National Guard shed no new light on the future president's activities during that summer.

A Pentagon official said Friday the earlier contention that the records were destroyed was an "inadvertent oversight."

Like records disclosed earlier by the White House, the newly released computerized payroll records show no indication Bush drilled with the Alabama unit during July, August and September of 1972 Pay records covering all of 1972, released previously, also indicated no guard service for Bush during those three months.

The records do not give any new information about Bush's Na tional Guard training during 1972, when he transferred to the Alabama National Guard unit so he could work on the U.S. Senate campaign of a family friend. The payroll records do not say definitively whether Bush attended training that summer because they are maintained separately from attendance records. White House spokesman Trent Duffy said Bush kept his service commitments, pointing to the fact that Bush was honorably discharged in 1973. The White House says Bush attended enough training during other months in 1972 to fulfill his service commitment for that year. The release came days before Democrats began their national convention in Boston to officially nominate Sen. John Kerry as their presidential candidate. Military veterans are being tapped at the convention to help tell Kerry's story as he prepares to accept the party's nomination next week

A spokesman for the Democratic National Committee, Jano Cabrera, called the discovery Friday of Bush's records "highly questionable."

"If the Bush administration continues to search, maybe they'll find answers to the long list of unanswered questions that remain about George W. Bush's time in the Air National Guard." Cabrera "Bush's military records seem to show up as randomly as he did for duty.

The revealing outfit, which shows off much of her torso, was added incentive to keep in shape for the eight months of production, Berry said. "I thought because it was cut

AT&T cancels long-distance

Company will no longer offer new consumers service

BY CHRISTOPHER STERN AND GRIFF WITTE

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — AT&T Corp., once a cornerstone of the U.S. telecommunications industry and still one of the world's most recognizable brands, announced Thursday that it will no longer market long-distance service to consumers, a business it has dominated for 100 years.

The decision marks a turning point in the history of Ma Bell, the former monopoly that strung telephone lines across the nation before it was broken up by a federal judge in 1984. Twenty years later, ATXF is fighting for survival in a telecommunications industry rolled by intense competition technological innovation and cutthroat pricing.

ATRT chief executive David Dorman said Thursday that the long-distance giant will focus on business customers, which account for about 70 percent of its revenue. Although ATRT will no longer be marketing to new consumers, it will continue to serve its 35 million current customers, Dorman said.

Consumer groups called AT&T's retreat a serious setback because it will lessen competition, which has driven down rates for consumers.

"This is devastating. This takes the most revered name in quality long-distance service and the most aggressive competitor to the [regional] Bell monopolies out of play," said Gene Kimmelman, director of the Washington office of Consumers Union

The AT&T of today is a sliver of its former self. Once it had 1 million employees and controlled every facet of the telephone system, including the manufacture of handsets and the operation of local and long-distance networks. The fabled Bell Labs were responsible for some of the biggest breakthroughs in modern science, including the invention of the transistor, the laser and the mobile phone.

Under the breakup, it lost control of the local networks it built and was forced to pay local phone companies more than 40 percent of its revenue to complete its calls. Now AT&T has 60,000 workers. It has spun off its research, manufactur-workers. It has spun off its research, manufacturing and wireless businesses. Even its business customer base is dwindling, although not as rapidly as its consumer operations. Despite its sethacks, AT&T is still the nation's largest long-distance provider, although its customer base is eroding at a rapid rate, thanks largely to competition from its former corporate sibings. These regional phone companies, such as Verixon Communications Inc. and BellSouth as local service to offer long-distance as well as local service.

Dorman said AT&T pulled back from the consumer market now because regulators have abandoned a policy that he said allowed AT&T to comnete for customers.

For eight years, the Federal Communications Commission has encouraged competition in the local phone market by allowing companies such as AT&T to lease parts of the local network at deen discourts

AT&T had taken advantage of the rules to offer a bundle of local and long-distance calling for one flat rate, allowing it to compete with similar offerings from regional giants such as Verizon, SBC Communications Inc. and BellSouth.

But the FCC voted Thursday to approve new rules that will effectively end the discounts. Packages of local and long-distance service have proved to be enormously popular with consumers. About 40 percent of all households subscribe to some form of bundled service, according to Dorman. But he said AT&T can no longer market such bundles competitively without the regulated access to local networks.

Don't delay paying bills

CBS MarketWatch

NEW YORK — When you receive a bill in the mail, resist the urge to stash it away and pay it off later.

Jean Chatzky, author of "You Don't Have to Be Rich," writes that it's actually better to pay your bills as they come in rather than let them pile up for a lengthy bill-paying session.

Sitting down only once or twice a month to write out checks can be an overwhelming and depressing process. It's just not fun to watch your bank balance dwindle as you write out check after check for mortgage and car payments, utilities, credti cards and other expenses.

Instead, Chatzky recommends setting up a "bill payment center."

Keep your checkbook, pens and stamps in one location, near wherever you open your mail. Open each bill and pay it the day it arrives; then put it in the following day's outgoing mail. Save the account statement as a reminder to yourself that you've paid it.

Paying your bills as they arrive also will help you cut out the added stress and other complications that stem from overdue or nearly late payments.

If you're computer-literate, you might also work with you may be the too to set up online bill you ments. Many organizations willnadlow you to set up automatic payments, or will e-mail you statements and payment reminders. Local workers push envelope

In the July 18 article "Japanese workers on U.S. bases denounce labor laws" (Japan and Okinawa editions), Japanese labor leader Kazuo Yamakawa said: "There is a limit to our patience." Please!

You know what I denounce? I denounce that active-duty military members have to (in theory) steal, beg or borrow proper equipment and/or enough military members necessary to complete missions, or at the very least to maintain a safe working environment while having to endure — let alone succumb to - the never-ending barrage of continuous Master Labor Contract demands, while for themselves doing without

If one's work - and compensation for one's work - comes solely from the Japanese government, complain away. If any compensation comes from U.S. dollars, i.e. my tax dollars, to use Mr. Yamakawa's own words, "It is very regrettable" — his audacity, that is,

are given the chance to be with that one special person it makes your life so much better every day. It makes you a better person and gives each of us a reason to want to do better in all aspects of our life.

When I first met my wife I knew she was my special person and now, after almost six years. I am still in awe that she married me.

I look at my sister who is married to another woman and I am in awe of them They are a great couple and their two sons are taken care of and are well-educated, full of love and laughter. Their union is the same as mine is to my wife - a good match of two people. It should not be left up to the courts to tell everyone who can marry and who cannot. It also should not be an issue for the president because of a little thing called senaration of church and state. For President Bush to have tried to get the Constitution changed was a far-fetched move, a lot like everything else he has done so far.

So many other people also want to say God says it is wrong. I say they are hiding behind God to hide their own insecurity. I mean what really happens when two people of the same sex get married? Nothing. The world doesn't stop, the rain doesn't fall and God has yet to strike down a single couple that has been married in the church

So, get over it. Put your energies to a better cause, such as ending your ignorance, world hunger, AIDS in Africa, Bush in office, etc., and live your life. You only have one and should you really be wasting it on who married whom?

U.S. troops' skill emancipated Iraq

us from the mission at hand or lessen the magnitude of your The threat we face must be confronted. And you are doing so exceedingly well.

Indeed it has been a historic demonstration of skill and military power. On Sept. 11, 3,000 citizens were killed by extremists determined to frighten and intimidate our people and civilized societies. The future danger is that, if the extremists gain the potential, the number of casualties would be far higher. Terrorists are continuing to plot attacks against the American people and against other civilized societies. This is a different kind of enemy and a different kind of world. And we must think and act differently in this new century.

These extremists think nothing of cutting off innocent people's heads to try to intimidate great nations. They have murdered citizens from many countries -South Korea, Japan, Spain, the United Kingdom and others — hoping to strike

Theirs is an ideology of oppression and subjugation of women. They seek to create radical systems that impose their views on others. And they will accept no armistice with those who choose free systems

They see the governments of the Middle East, the United States and our stalwart allies as targets.

Consider the background. In the span of 20 years, Saddam's Iraq invaded two neighbors, Iran and Kuwait, and launched ballistic missiles at two more. He employed poison gas against soldiers in Iran and against Kurdish villagers in his own country. The United Nations and the U.S. Congress shared the view that Saddam's regime was a threat to the region and the world. Indeed, in 1998, our Congress nassed a resolution calling for the removal of the regime. And over the years the U.N. passed 17 resolutions condemning Saddam's regime and calling on him to tell the U.N. about his weapons programs. He ignored every one.

Information gathered since the defeat of Saddam's regime last year confirms that his last declaration to the United Nations about his weapons programs was falsified. The U.N. resolutions had called for "serious consequences" should Saddam not comply. He did not.

The president issued a final ultimatum to Saddam to relinquish power to avoid war Saddam chose war instead

By your skill and courage, you have put a brutal dictator in the dock to be tried by the Iraqi people and restored freedom to 25 million people. By helping to repair infrastructure, rebuild schools, encourage democratic institutions and delivering educational and medical supplies, you have shown America's true character and given Iraq a chance at a new start

But most importantly, your fight and ultimate victory — against the forces of terror and extremism in Iraq and the Middle East will have made America safer and more secure. You are accomplishing something noble and historic - and future generations of Americans will remember and thank you for it. Donald Rumsfeld is secretary of defense.

Partisan punches knock out voters' hopes

BY ALAN WOLFE

merican politics more partisan than ever. The American people distrust partisanship more than ever. The conflict between these two forces is as important to the election of 2004 as the contest between Republicans and Demo-

One of the clearest measures of partisanship is the dollars that candidates can raise. By that measure, the big surprise of the current election is that Democrats can be as partisan as Republicans, since John Kerry has surprised those who thought that he would run out of cash long before the Democratic convention. Instead, his party. much like its opponent, is getting its wealthy supporters to put their money where their mouths are. Party unity is a second indication of partisanship, and here as well the two parties are geared for battle. Republicans have a reputation for discipline, but no Republican has been as single-minded about making his colleagues toe the line as George W. Bush; he even has John McCain appearing in his ads. Vet it is the Democrats who are more unified than ever. Liberal activists by the score are disdaining independent candidate Ralph Nader. The left and right factions within the party are suppressing their differences over gay rights or Iraq to present a common front. Unlike in the days of comedian Will Rogers, a person can now say, "I belong to an organized party: I'm a Democrat.

In addition, the parties have stopped treating each other by Marquis of Queensbury rules. The majority in many state legislatures draws district lines to ensure seats for itself. Time-honored traditions in Congress - such as bipartisan membership on conference committees - have been set aside. House Democratic leader Nancy Pelosi and Republican leader Tom DeLay do not just dislike each other: each thinks the other a danger to the republic. And of course partisanshin can be found in the fact that Republicans and Democrats hold different positions on many issues of the day. If you want a constitutional amendment banning gay marriage, you're a Republican partisan; if you want to prevent the Supreme Court from overturning Roe vs. Wade, you're with the other guys True, Kerry has been careful not to distance himself too much from Bush on Iraq. But this is not Tweedledum and Tweedledee's elec-

Yet while the partisans are in full fury, a lot of other Americans do not like politics, and they like partisan politics even less. This is especially true when it comes to the famed wedge issues. The Republicans and the Democrats may disagree zealously over whether the Constitution should be amended to ban gay marriage, but most Americans simply do not think the issue is that important. Sept. 11 and the war in Iraq have changed the people's mood far more than Washington's Wedge issues now seem tawdry and divisive, one reason why none of them, including affirmative action and abortion, are all that prom-

Nor do Americans appreciate the negative campaigning that partisanship fuels. Incumbents, who have a record to run on, usually run on it; it is a sign of our partisan times that the sitting president is attacking his opponent as if the opponent were the one in the White House. Time will tell whether Bush's attempts to define Kerry negatively — or Kerry's efforts to respond - will work. But polls and voting patterns in the past show that Americans want their candidates unbeat and positive, not mean-spirited and divisive.

Then there is all that money. As they proved when they put sufficient pressure on Congress to pass the McCain-Feingold law, Americans find it unseemly when those with access to money can simply buy access to government. Given that both candidates opted out of public financing in the primaries, pressure could build again for new rules, ones that would not only limit spending but also cut down on those annoying TV ads the money buys.

From the standpoint of the con test between the parties, the key question is which one will get more votes. In the struggle between partisanship and nonpartisanship, by contrast, the key question is how many will vote. Americans already go to the polls in far lower percentages than they did a century ago, particularly younger Americans. It may well be that the intense partisanship we are witnessing will energize each party's base and that it will turn around this decline. Or sanship could sour the independents and centrists and keep them from voting at all, lowering once again the percentage of thos who show up

Partisan myself, I hope for the former outcome. But I would not surprised if the latter one hap-

Teacher's victim now faces more adult situations

he's back. She's looking for love. And, this time around, there's nothing we can — or should — do if the kid she sexually molested wants to accommodate her.

Sick as it seems, that's the hard truth about the twisted relationship between former elementary-school teacher Mary Kay Letourneau and her onetime student Vili Fualaau. Because once vou turn 21 in this country, the law says you're free to make as big a mess of your life as you want. It's what makes America great

So I grimly support Fualaau's right to destroy his future, even if it makes me feel sadthan hell to see him do it. Letourneau and Fualaau are sure to create a new round of disturbing headlines on Aug. 4, when Letourneau is released from the Washington prison where she's spent seven years

Their old headlines were written in the late '90s, when Letourneau - then a lonely 34-year-old mother of four — befriended and seduced Fualaau, an emotionally needy sixth-grader.

"We had sex in the gym. We had sex in the girls' bathroom. We had sex in the classroom," Fualaau said. Talk about a wide-ranging education.

They both called it love. Prosecutors called it child rane. Letourneau, who eventually gave birth to Fualaau's daughter, did jail time, was re leased early, ignored a court order to stay away from Fualaau and was shipped back to the pokey. Where she gave birth to a second daughter by him. Has this woman never met a contracen tive she could live with? Experts say that when Letourneau, now 42, is released from prison in two weeks, she likely will seek cus tody of the two girls, who've been raised by Fualaau's mother (Letourneau rarely sees the kids she had with her now-ex-husband).

Astoundingly, Fualaau, who is now an unemployed, 21-year-old consenting adult, would like to reunite with her. After he petitions the court to rescind the order keeping Letourneau from his arms.

"I'd really like to take one step at a time he told People magazine. "Get to know each other again, talk about our finances, get married. ... Try to live like normal people with a future.

Oh, dear God

Like I said, I support Fualaau's right to live his life as he sees fit. But right now everything in me hopes like crazy that he lets that judge's order stand. Not just to keep the ever-fertile Letourneau from having more babies she can't care for. But to give Fualaau — a tragic figure if there ever was one a chance to grow up, to imagine for himself a life in which he can do better than to marry the predator who exploited his vulnerability and stole his childhood.

"The question here is whether he will make a true choice" to be with Letourneau, says James Pedigo, medical director of the Joseph J. Peters Institute, which treats sex offenders and victims of sexual abuse. "Or is he still under her influence?"

"A judge may require him to undergo a psychiatric evaluation before he lifts the restraining order," Pedigo says, "to be sure that the woman won't be of harm to him." But that's not guaranteed.

The only thing guaranteed, says John Salveson, is that Fualaau is not "your garden-variety 21-year-old.'

"This is a person who has experienced childhood sexual abuse, and that has changed him, because it changes everyone."

says Salveson, director of the Philadelphia chapter of SNAP — the Survivor Network of those Abused by Priests

"So is he making the same kind of informed decision that another 21-year-old would make to date or marry a 42-year-old oman? Absolutely not.'

But the problem, as Pedigo and Salveson both concede, is that damaged adults make bad, uninformed or even despicable decisions about important things every day, not just marriage (see J.Lo) but finances (see Martha Stewart) and child-rearing (see pop-freak Michael Jackson). And no one stops them, unless they break the law, because life is theirs to ruin as they In Fualaau's case, his new status as a consenting adult means all we can do is watch this betrayed-child-turned-grown-up does what he thinks is best — no matter how sad that decision looks to the rest of us

CA SAN FRANCISCO — Don is giving up a life if crime, drugs and booze, and giving back to the community — the art community.

community.

The former burglar, crack cocaine smoker, state prisoner and alcoholic has donated $10,000 to the art gallery where he had panhandled for the last few years.

The man — identified only as Don — inherited $187,000 from his long-estranged mother who died a year ago. Executors of her estate tracked him down a month ago through his Social Security number and help from local social workers.

One of the first things Don did was show his gratitude to Blue Room Gallery owner Paul Mahder for treating him with respect.

"When I had a heart attack and wound up in the hospital a year ago, who was the only person to visit me? Paul. And when I needed a doorway to sleep in over the past couple years, who let me? Paul," Don said. "He treated me like a human being. That's something you don't forget."

Both men burst into tears when Don presented his check.

Extended sentence

PA ALLENTOWN — A 17-year-old Allentown boy who threw a chunk of ice off an overpass, killing a minivan passenger, will spend six more months in a secure juvenile facility, a judge ruled.

Dennis Gumbs will be recommitted to Alternative Rehabilitation Communities in Franklin County. Another hearing will be scheduled in six months to review his placement, Lehigh County Judge Lawrence J. Brenner ruled Wednesday.

Gumbs has been in the facility since August, when Brenner found Gumbs delinquent of third-degree murder and reckless endangerment.

Off the hook

BRYAN — A Bryan civic leader who left his 6-year-old daughter along a highway in August has been acquitted of abandoning and endangering her with intent to return.

Roy Flores, 43, told authorities that his intentions were not to abandon his "fearless and determined" child, but to teach her a lesson after she tried to run away.

The decision to acquit him came after more than five hours of deliberation and a near mistrial when jurors sent out a note stating it was unlikely they would be able to reach a consensus, the Bryan-College Station Eagle reported.

Gas survey continues

SALT LAKE CITY — A federal judge refused Wednesday to halt a natural gas survey alongside an eastern Utah canyon that contains a wealth of ancient Indian ruins and rock art.

U.S. District Judge Emmet Sullivan threw out a lawsuit filed by The Wilderness Society and other groups and upheld the Bureau of Land Management's decision to let a Denver company look for an estimated 66 billion cubic feet of natural gas reserves.

While Sullivan was making his decision, Bill Barrett Corp. was able in late May to begin a seismic survey involving the use of blast holes and heavy "vibroseis" trucks, which pound the earth looking for likely gas traps deep underground.

The Allentown Fire Department's bomb squad doused at least 60 sticks of dynamite with diesel fuel to neutralize them, then burned them on the site, sending a cloud of thick black smoke above the scrap yard.

MADISON — The City Council narrowly rejected a plan to make Madison the sister city of Rafah, a violence-wracked Palestinian city, after a marathon session that ran into the early morning Wednesday.

The nonpartisan council in this predominantly liberal university town voted 9-8 for the plan, but that fell short of the 11 votes needed to pass.

More than 100 speakers testified, with some saying the proposal was a political slap at Israel and others calling it an important step to help Rafah's residents. The city, on the southern edge of the Gaza Strip, has been the scene of frequent violent conflict with Israel.

Offered double duty

PA ALTAMONT — A man who's worked as a part-time police officer for different municipalities now has been hired as a full-time officer — by two denartments.

Frackville Borough hired Livergood as a full-time officer at a special meeting Tuesday. Then that night he was hired as a full-time officer by West Mahanoy Township.

The Frackville job would pay a starting salary of about $25,000 a year, Police Chief John M. Morgan Jr. said. The West Mahanoy job would pay about $23,920 a year.

Back in politics

MA SEATTLE — Judith Billings, who resigned as Washington state school superintendent in 1996 after learning that she had become infected with the AIDS virus from artificial insemination, announced Wednesday that she is running to get her old job back.

She said her HIV infection will not prevent her from campaigning, and her doctor approves.

Man on the run

SYRACUSE — A 36-year-old man led police on a brief car chase, driving on sidewalks, through parking lots and even against traffic on a busy boulevard, so he wouldn't get caueht with stolen library books.

"The officers were a little taken back when they found out what the deal was. They couldn't believe it," said Syracuse police spokesman Sgt. Tom Connellan, who added police broke off pursuit because the situation Sunday became too dangerous.

There were no injuries, and — even more amazingly, Connellan said — no property damage.

Byron Haynes of Syracuse was to be arraigned Monday in Syracuse City Court on misdemeanor charges of reckless endangerment, petit larceny and reckless driving, as well as numerous traffic infractions.

NC POLKTON — A one-time U.S. Army reservist from Concord, Calif, who gained infamy as the "Roofman Robber," dropping through the roofs of McDonald's restaurants around the country as smoothly as soft-serve landing in a cone, is again on the run after escaping from a North Carolina prison.

Jeffery Manchester, 32, is suspected of at least 40 robberies at McDonald's and other businesses from California to Virginia during a two-year spree that ended with his arrest in 2000. In each case, a masked gunnan drilled through the roof and surprised employees before the fast-food place's opening or after its closing.

But Manchester has not been seen since escaping June 15 from Brown Creek Correctional Institution in Polkton, N.C., where he was serving a 45-year sentence for kidnapping and armed robbery for two McDonald's heists in that state.

NE ALLIANCE — Natural gas bills will increase $2 beginning next month in 16 Nebraska towns

Kinder Morgan Energy Partners announced Wednesday that it would be allowed to recover $1.17 million in legal fees as part of a settlement in a long-running natural gas contract dispute.

Under terms of the agreement, the Houston-based company will be reimbursed for the $550,000 it paid to replenish the Municipal Natural Gas Regulation Revolving Loan Fund. The fund provides state money to assist municipalities involved in rate cases.

Energizing jolt

MADISON — A Madison man who was struck by lightning this week says he feels "lighter and 100 years younger" than he did before Tuesday's accident.

"Tm feeling like my body is light. It's the best I've probably felt as far as energy in 10 years," said John Corson, 56, the day after he was struck by lightning while working outside his home.

Corson thought the afternoon thunder-and-lightning storm had passed his home, and had gone outside to work on a renovation project when the lightning hit him.

Corson, who has had three cardiac surgeries, spent eight hours at Redington-Fairview General Hospital after the accident while doctors tested his blood for any effect on his heart.

CA SAN FRANCISCO — A man who wrestled a burglar's gun away and shot him with it as he fled has been jailed on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Harvey Williams, 29, arrived home Tuesday to find the burglar at the door of his apartment. The men wrestled in a stairway before spilling out onto the sidewalk, where the gun fell to the ground, according to police.

"At that point, the burglar started running down the street," police spokesman Dewayne Tully said. "Mr. Williams picked up the gun and started firing at him, hitting him."

VA REMINGTON—Three people rescued a man from his burning car after it collided with another on U.S. 29 early Wednesday, state police said.

Christopher Cota III, 43, of Midland, was in the intensive care unit at Culpeper Regional Hospital, Trooper Ken Blank said.

Blank said Cota's car was going north in the southbound lanes of the highway about 1:30 am. and burst into flames after a head-on collision on a curve with an oncoming car. Cota will be charged with driving under the influence, Blank said.

Joan Indusi, a 52-year-old schoolteacher from Ossining, got stuck in a mudhole on the Hudson River shoreline for more than an hour Tuesday when she left a footpath in Croton Point Park in search of feathered friends.

"I never believed you could get stuck to the point where you literally could not move," she said Wednesday, "but I was up to my knees and I was trying to lift my leg up and I couldn't."

Luckily, she was carrying a cell phone along with her birding binoculars and was able to call police. She was unable to rell the offices exactly where she was, however, so they drove to the park and sounded a siren periodically. She would then tell them if they were getting closer or farther away.

GA ATLANTA — An airline passenger wearing only a pair of pajama bottoms stole a baggage tractor at the city's main airport and drove it onto an active runway. police said.

Atlanta police say Robert W. Buzzell, 31, had walked out an exit door that had an alarm at Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport.

Flights were not affected by the incident, which took place before 6 a.m. Wednesday, airport officials said.

The man was stopped by mechanics, who asked him for an employee identification card. When he could not provide one, they escorted him to an office and called police.

J Horoscope

The Scorpio moon tunes us in to the subtleties that shape our environment, and with Mercury now in Virgo, it's even easier to home in on the microscopic Joyce Jillson details we missed earlier the clues that will give us that exhilarating "aha!" moment tonight. The moon shifts into Sagittarius, and it's difficult to get to sleep. TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (July 26). You're changing your whole basis of operation this year. You've got so many wonderful things going on that you feel you no longer have time for the nonsense. Next month brings a leg up on the career front. You'll be able to go much further with a mentor, so find one. Romance through the fall makes you feel like a poet. I ove signs are Pisces and Virgo.

ARIES (March 21-April 19).

Synergy: Your life needs it, and your special project won't fly without it. So find people or organizations you work well with because it can't happen on your own. A minute adjustment to your personal life makes a big difference.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20).

Phone calls from a distance both cheer you and fill you with curiosity What do the callers want, you may wonder Presume innocence and you can have a good old time chatting away. Tell someone how grateful you are for help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21).

Your intentions may be clear to you but not so to the people around you. State where you're going. You'll get more help, especially from a powerful person. Your family could bombard you because you have the best solutions

CANCER (June 22-July 22). In the morning, you arise remembering the things that you forgot to do vesterday. Was it somebody's birthday? Did you overlook an assignment? Whatever the misstep, correct it before noon, and the damage is minimal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Capture the respect of those under you at work. Even if it's not "your job," pitching in to show that you're not above doing what it takes to make the team run smoothly will earn you all the esteem you desire.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Close relationships are your main focus, though you don't want them to be. Big issues make it impossible for you to go along your merry way your mind is tied into either worrving or scheming about how to make it all work out

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). There's no reason to be jealous of friends who always seem to be taking trips and exploring new parts of the world. Get on the Internet, and book something! It's not as expensive as you might think. Invest in children

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You're so content with your own little bubble of a world that it's hard to let anyone in. But a little change or, better yet, conflict will actually be good for you. Stop screening your calls, and make some daring ones of your own.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). There's a long list of things that have to hannen in order for you to pull off a big plan. But don't you worry: Your creativity and bubbling enthusiasm act as a magnet to draw whatever is needed CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19). Your efforts (and your efforts alone) will determine your financial status. This might be hard to accept when it feels like higher-ups have all the nower over the size of your paycheck. This is only an illusion.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Some think love is a game; others think it is a dance - lately, you see it as an equation to be solved. Your analytical look at love seems to give you more options. If one way doesn't work, there are 1,000 other solutions

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Money luck is on the rise. Opportunities to earn more include physical labor, not just coming up with ideas, but you're feeling strong (and can use the exercise). Let go of a nagging and unfulfilling obligation.

Don't take trait debate personally

Dear Abby: I have a 1-year-old daughter with a man I chose not to marry. Every time I take my little girl to visit her grandparents, they bombard me with comments about who my child favors. Everything, from his family's point of view. comes from her father Dear Abby down to her baby noises and facial gestures What makes this so hurtful is it's simply not true. I have tried to politely slip some baby pictures of myself to them in the hope they'd take the hint and stop. My daughter does resemble her daddy, but she also has my hair, eyes, skin and some facial features Nothing has worked so far, and I am beyond frustrated Please print this because, childish as it may seem, being made to feel like a test tube who contributed nothing really hurts.

 Invisible in Alabama Dear Invisible: Stop hinting parents exactly what you have told me and the rest of my read ers. But please say it gently. because what they are doing isn't unusual When a child is horn it's natural for families to look for and recognize their own genetic traits. They may be tactless, but

I'm sure they don't mean to be cruel. You are far more than a "test tube." You're a caring and conscientious mother for mak ing sure that your child has a relationship with her grandparents.

Dear Abby: I just got a phone call from my father. He hadn't called in more than three months, so I was a little surprised to hear from him. The first words out of his mouth were, "Can I borrow $250 to get my car fixed? You don't even have to get me a Father's Day

Abby, my dad is not poor. Now

He says I'm ungrateful, and that I owe it to him for all the years he paid child support to my

I don't have the money to spare. I just spent a lot to have my own car fixed, and I'm saving for a new one. Was I wrong not to give him the loan? Should I have done it to keep the peace

- Second Thoughts in Utah Dear Second Thoughts: It depends on your relationship with your father. Obviously, you are not particularly close or there wouldn't have been a three-month gap between co sations. And since "the first words out of his mouth" were to ask for money, your dad's diplo matic skills could use some sharpening I don't think you were wrong to refuse.P.S. Your father paid child support because he was required by law to do it. You do not owe him money in return.

and tell your daughter's grandhe is mad at me for saying no.

Father, daugher seem too close Dear Annie: You recently printed a letter about a single father who seemed overly familiar with his 14-year-old daughter. I have a similar problem. "Milo" and I have been dating for a year. He has two daughters, and I am concerned about the relationship he has with the older one, who lives with him. I understand that Mile is close to both his daughters because he has raised them as a single parent for the past 16 years. But "Emily " is 23, and something is not right. Whenever I visit Milo at his place, Emily is usually cuddled up to him in a fashion I would call intimate. She strokes his hair and rubs her foot up and down his leg. Maybe I was raised wrong, but I never touched my father in this manner, and neither do most women I know Milo's vounger daughter, who lives on her own, does little more than kiss her father on the cheek when she visits. Both girls date, for her boyfriend. I am not comfortable seeing Emily touch her father in this way and would like to bring it up to him. Should I, or is it none of my business? - Too Close for Comfort Dear Too Close: Does Emily behave like this all the time, or only when you are visiting? It seems she is "mark ing her territory," so to speak, and letting you know that she will always come first in Daddy's life. The fact that Daddy doesn't mind is what disturbs us.

Yes, you can bring this up to Milo, but gently. Let him know you find such father-daughter intimacy unusual, and that Emily seems rather possessive when you are around. Tell him it makes you uncomfortable. If he values your relationship, he will ask Emily to cool it. If not, at least vou'll know where you stand.

Dear Annie: I have a question about proper hand towel etiquette When there is a cloth roll for drving one's hands in a public bathroom, is it better to pull the roll down to a fresh piece when you are finished or leave it alone I'm a janitor and would prefer not to have to change those rolls so often. Throwing in the Towel in Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada Dear Alberta: This isn't so much about etiquette as it is about hygiene. Electric hand dryers and disposable paper towels are less likely to transmit germs. For the cloth roll, we think each person should pull down a fresh piece after drying his or her own hands, instead of leaving a soiled area for the next person to yank at. The important thing is to wash your hands thoroughly and try not to touch too much. Annie's Mailbox is written by Kathy Mitchell and Marcy Sugar, longtimeditors of the Ann Landers column editors of the Ann Landers column.

U.S. Extended Forecast

Unseasonably wet, cool weather is expected along the Atlantic coast Monday. The exception will be northern Maine, where high pressure will be in control through the period. Texas will gradually dry out as high pressure builds into the area. A strong cold front will push out of southern Alberta Tuesday and gather steam as it advances across the Plains Wednesday. Numerous showers and thunderstorms are expected ahead of the front with much cooler air following. After a hot weekend, temperatures will return to more seasonable readings in the Pacific Northeast, and some locations will even dip a few degrees below normal.

Cowboys banking on George for a title run

BY TODD ARCHER
The Dallas Morning News

IRVING, Texas — Lounging with his son, Jaire, on a blue sofa in the middle of the Cowboys' locker room Friday afternoon, Eddie George felt at ease.

"It looks the same from the last time I was here," George said.

Eight years after his first visit to Dallas to accept the Doak Walter Award, George will take up a more permanent residence with the Cowboys, signing a one-year contract that can be worth as much as $5 million. He received a $1.5 million signing bonus and will be paid a base salary of $660,000. If he runs for 1,300 yards and scores 10 touchdowns, he will receive $3 million in incentives.

And if he does that, the Cowboys might have a successful season. "I think I can still carry the

"I think I can still carry the load and do the things I've been doing," said George, who ran for 10,009 yards in eight seasons for the Tennessee Titans.

"I was just asking for the opportunity and being in the right fit and the right situation. This could

George, 30, will have to prove that he has plenty left when training camp begins next week in Oxnard, Calif.

Among the top 20 rushers in NFL history, George (3.7 yards per carry) is one of only two who have not averaged 4 yards a carry (John Riggins is the other). He has also been nagged by shoulder, knee, calf and toe injuries in recent years, but he has not missed a star.

The Cowboys were prepared to let second-round pick Julius Jones win the starting job, but now, according to coach Bill Parcells' plan, the best player will play, and that's OK with George. But he has never shared the workload.

"It's not ideal," George said.
"I've never been in that situation.
I'll get into camp and see what happens."

George is also aware of Parcells' history with Ottis Anderson, who went five years between Eddie George, left, signed a one-year contract that, with incentives, could be worth as much as $5 million. Cowboys owner/GM Jerry Jones, right, would gladly pay the $3 million bonus for a 1,300-yard season that includes 10 touchdowns. George, 30, has 10,009 career rushing yards.

1,000-yard seasons before 1989, when he ran for 1,023 for the New York Giants. In 1990, the Giants selected running back Rodney Hampton in the first round, but Anderson's hard-running style led Parcells to his second Super Bowl victory. "Bill Parcells has a very good feel for the right way to maximize the value to a team of a veteran running back," owner and general manager Jerry Jones said.

Terry Glenn, who played with George at Ohio State, believes a change of scenery will help. "Sometimes when you stay with a team a long, long time, things get redundant," Glenn said.

get redundant," Glenn said.

"Also, I think he's going to have a chip on his shoulder with the way things went down in Tennessee."

The Titans asked George to take a pay cut, which he declined, leading to his release earlier this week.

"It's very odd," said George of being with another team. "Change is inevitable, and it comes in different ways. And right now I'm in a transition point and an adjustment period. The organization is doing everything they can to make me feel comfortable as soon as possible. It's been difficult. It's been emotional."

The Cowboys had a similar divorce last year when they released Emmitt Smith, the NFL's career leading rusher. Smith signed with Arizona, and he ran for a career-low 256 yards in 10 games.

The Cowboys are hoping George can be another Anderson, not last year's Smith.

Dallas mulls decision on disgruntled WR Bryant

From wire report

IRVING, Texas — Antonio Bryant paid a brief visit to the Cowboys' Valley Ranch facility Friday, and the third-year receiver is expected back Monday

NFL briefs expected back Monday for a visit with coach Bill Parcells to determine his status with the team. During on-field work last month, Bryant threw a jersey at Parcells after an altercation that included wide receiver Keyshawn Johnson and wide receivers coach Todd Haley. Bryant resumed working out in Dallas a few weeks ago but not at the team's facility.

The Cowboys have delayed making a decision about Bryant. A few teams have called about trading for Bryant, but the Cowboys want a significant draft pick in return. Though headstrong, Bryant does possess talent, and the team's wide receiving group is not deep.

Agent Lamont Smith said Bryant wants to store in Della

"He understands that he needs to control his actions," Smith said.

Meanwhile, safety Darren Woodson will meet again with doctors Monday before probably undergoing surgery to repair a numbered disk Tuesday

The Cowboys want to have surgery performed as soon as possible so Woodson does not miss much of the regular season. Owner and general manager Jerry Jones said the most Woodson would miss is eight weeks, which would run into the home opener Sept. 19 vs. Cleveland.

"We've had good experiences with former players with this type of surgery," said Jones, citing Troy Aikman, Charles Haley and Jay Novacek as examples. 'Darren has had an excellent off-season relative to his conditioning. We believe that if an athlete is in great shape, then his chance of getting back quickly and successfully are really enhanced.'

Jets QB Pennington puts deadline

Chad Pennington and the New York Jets have agreed to continue negotiations on a contract extension through the end of August, but then will break off talks until after the 2004 season if no agreement is reached.

"I have made it clear that once the month of August is over, negotiations will stop if nothing has been reached," Pennington said Friday.

Pennington's agent, Tom Condon, met with Jets officials before the NFL Draft, Pennington said. Since then, he said, "there wasn't too much discussion."

Pennington is entering the final year of the five-year contract he signed as a rookie in 2000. If the Jets don't sign him to an extension before the end of August, they will be in the same position next offseason that the Colts faced with quarterback Peyton Manning, who played last season on the final year of his deal. Rather than apply the franchise tag to Manning in the offseason, which would have given him a salary of $18 million for 2004, the Colts signed Manning to a seven-year deal worth $98 million, including a $34.5 million signing bonus.

Pennington and Manning are represented by the same agent, Condon, who also represents Manning's brother, Giants rookie quarterback Eli Manning.

Texans' first-round pick signs

HOUSTON — Cornerback Dunta Robinson, the 10th overall pick in the NFL Draft, signed a six-year deal Saturday worth about $10.7 million with the Houston Texans.

Robinson is the highest selection of any team to agree to terms this offseason. The Texans have signed both of their first-round picks, the other being outside linebacker Jason Babin, who was taken 27th waves!

Revamped Giants seek turnaround

BY TOM CANAVAN The Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J.— The New York Giants are going to training camp excited about Eli Manning's future and hopeful coach Tom Couglin's no-nonsense approach returns them to respectability. The rampant Super Bowl hopes

The rampant Super Bowl hopes that accompanied them to the University at Albany last summer have been tempered by a horrid season that led to the firing of Jim Fassel and hiring of Coughlin.

The four-win season also led to a retooling highlighted by a bold draft-day trade that landed the No. 1 pick overall — Manning.

Since then, incumbent quarterback Kerry Collins was waived, two-time NFL MVP Kurt Warner was signed and massive changes were made. "I know the popular perception was that we were going to be very good last year and the popular perception is we are going to be lousy this year," said John Mara, the Giants chief operating officer. "I don't know if that is true. In fact, I don't think that is true."

Most of the offseason talk involving the Giants has centered on Manning, the son of former NFL quarterback Archie Manning and the brother of Indianapolis Colts OB Peyton Manning.

The offense will belong to Manning once he is ready. Until then, Warner will run the show.

How well Warner does will depend more on the revamped offensive line and the health of oft-injured tight end Jeremy Shockey, who has earned Pro Bowl honors in his first two seasons. The line, which allowed a league-high 45 sacks after being devastated by injuries, will look different with the exception of Luke Petitgout at left tackle. Center Chris Bober was lost to Center Chris Bober was lost to free agency and guard Rich Seubert is questionable coming back from a broken leg.

Center Shaun O'Hara, tackle Barry Stokes and tackle Mathias Mkwenti were signed as free agents. David Diehl had a good rookie season starting at guard, although there has been talk of moving him to tackle.

The Giants have high hopes for guard Chris Snee, their second-round draft pick.

Tiki Barber, who hopes to overcome a fumbling problem, is still the No. 1 halfback.

Victory in time trial turns final stage into victory lap

The Associated Press

BESANCON, France - Lance Armstrong capped his most dominant Tour de France with another im-pressive win in the final time trial Saturday, all but guaranteeing that he will ride into history as the first six-time champion in the race's 101-year history. Pedaling furiously toward a stage victory that he didn't even need, Armstrong overpowered his rivals again, quickly building a gaping lead which he carried past cheering crowds to the finish line of the individual race against the clock.

Riding a high-tech aerodynamic bike, and wearing the leader's yellow jersey, the Texan finished 61 seconds faster than Jan Ullrich, the 1997 Tour champion and a five-time runner-up.

The stage win was Armstrong's fifth of this Tour, his most since he won cycling's most prestigious event for the first time in 1999

Only a crippling crash or other catastrophe will prevent Sunday's closing ride into Paris from being a lap of honor for Armstrong.

"To be on the verge of breaking history is incredibly special," he said

Still, he remained cautious "I'm always careful to say that we have another day to go, and if you crash on the Champs Elysee

PHILADELPHIA - La Salle men's basketball coach Hahn and women's coach John Miller have resigned amid two rape investigations involving players on the men's team

McGinniss read a statement but took no questions from reporters. The coaches did not attend the news conference, but in a tele phone interview Miller denied any wrongdoing. "I in no way discouraged one of my players from going forward publicly with any kind of rape al-legation," Miller said.

Cleaves, 22, of Paterson, N.J., and Neal, 19, of Baltimore, face charges of rape, involuntary deviate sexual intercourse sexual assault, unlawful restraint and other charges after a basketball player from the University of New Haven told police she was raped during an on-campus party June 24.

Yankees' A-Rod exorcises Fenway demons

BY HOWARD ULMAN The Associated Press

BOSTON - After getting the go-ahead hit in the ninth inning Friday night. Alex Rodriguez thought back to April, when he went 1-for-17 in his first series at Fenway Park with the Yankees.

"It feels like it was five years ago," he said. New York's early season struggles are a distant memory, and so is Boston's April success. Even three homers by Kevin Millar couldn't stop the Yankees from beating the Red Sox yet again.

After Millar tied the score in the eighth inning with his third solo home run, Rodriguez put New York back shead with his third hit of the game. The Yankees' 8-7 victory extended their lead to 91/2 games in an AL East race that increasingly appears to be over.

"I'm sure he wants to contribute, especially here," Derek Jeter said. "The first time around was kind of tough."

Judge rules Bryant jury to hear about accuser's sexual activity

BY JON SARCHE

The Associated Press

DENVER - The judge in the Kobe Bryant rape case has decided that jurors will be allowed to hear about the sex life of the NBA star's accuser so they can determine her credibility.

With about a month to go before the trial begins, District Judge Terry Ruckriegle on Friday gave what legal experts see as a solid victory to the defense.

Ruckriegle, however, limited the admissible evidence to the woman's sexual activities in the three days before her July 1, 2003 hospital examination, saving it is relevant to help determine the cause of her injuries and the source of DNA evidence

"While the defense lost some things it wanted, it has accumulated a massive amount of damaging facts," Larry Pozner, former president of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawvers said. "This evidence is as damaging a set of facts as a prosecutor could ever have to contend with and one wonders if at long last the accuser will pull the plug on this case woman's lawyer, John Clune, declined comment. Bryant's lawyers didn't return a call The prosecution will decide how to proceed after reviewing the decision but no options have been ruled out, spokeswoman Krista Flannigan said. "We have no plans of not moving forward with the prosecu-" she said. "It's just, what is that going to look like? Colorado's rape-shield law generally prevents the sex life of an alleged assault victim from being admitted as evidence. Judges can study evidence and witness testimony behind closed doors to determine if it is relevant. Ruckriegle said "specific instances of sexual activity" and evidence of sex can be offered to bolster the contention that her injuries were not caused by Bryant.

tailed ruling explaining what evidence will be admitted

Pozner said the ruling gives the defense ammunition to attack the alleged victim's credibility.

"In most sexual assault cases the complaining witness is the strength of the case," he said. "In this one she's the weakness of the case."

Bryant, 25, faces an Aug. 27 trial on a single charge of felony sexual assault. He has pleaded not guilty, saying he had consensual sex last summer with the woman, then a 19-year-old front desk worker at a Vail-area resort. If convicted, Bryant faces four vears to life in prison or 20 years to life on probation, and a fine up to $750.000 The defense has suggested the woman had multiple sexual part ners in the days surrounding her June 2003 encounter with Bryant including sex with someone after the alleged attack and before she contacted the authorities. Her lawver has denied that claim.

Dodgers catch fire in July, take NL West lead

BY KEN PETERS The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Frank McCourt leaned back in his front-row seat behind home plate, cheerfully eating peanuts and not particularly worried that his team trailed 6-0.

The Dodgers' No. 1 fan and rookie owner has reason to remain upbeat. Los Angeles suddenly has become one of baseball's best teams, opening a lead over the defending champion Giants and upstart Padres in the competitive NL West.

"We've been getting solid pitching, our defense has been superb, and we've had timely hitting," McCourt said. "I think what makes a team really good is talent, chemistry and confidence."

"We have good talent, and I believe the chemistry is there. These guys have a lot of fun playing, and they go out every night feeling they are going to win. I believe we have a quiet confidence now, which comes with winning."

And the Dodgers have been winning, with the third-best record in the majors behind St. Louis and the New York Yankees going into the weekend.

"You get a feeling of invincibility when you're clicking on all cylinders. Regardless of whether you're playing at home or on the road, or regardless of who's pitching, you feel like you're going to win the game," left fielder Dave Roberts said.

Jose Lima, who joined the Dodgers' rotation full-time in June, went 3-0 with a 3.06 ERA in five July starts.

After trailing San Francisco by 3½ games at the start of this month, the Dodgers have won 16 of 18 after Friday's 3-2 comeback victory over San Diego in the opener of a three-game series at Dodger Stadium. Adrian Beltre hit a game-winning home run off Rod Beck in the nith inning.

Los Angeles is 3½ games in front of the Padres and the Giants.

"The Dodgers have a great club this year," San Francisco's J.T. Snow said. "They've added some great pieces, and they're playing with confidence."

Even when the Dodgers fell six runs behind

Colorado in a game earlier this week, Mc-Court wasn't conceding anything. After all, Los Angeles has come from behind in 29 of its S5 victories this year. The Dodgers' rally fell one run short in that game against the Rockies, a 6-5 loss that ended an eight-game winning streak.

"Over the course of our last 15-16 ballgames, we have done nothing but execute offensively and defensively in virtually every situation," manager Jim Tracy said. "We have run the bases very aggressively and have forced opposing clubs to make mistakes due to our aggressiveness.

"We've worked very hard at our defense. When you don't give the other side the opportunity to score cheap runs on you, it puts less of a burden on your offense."

The Dodgers have committed a major-league low 42 errors through 95 games.

"Our middle is as good defensively as anybody in the game," Tracy said of shortstop Cesar Izturis, second baseman Alex Cora and center fielder Milton Bradley.

"We're as good as anybody in the game at third base (with Beltre). Shawn Green has done a terrific job in the conversion process to playing first base."
